

Sea Defenders

Pre Visit Lesson Plan:

What the Ocean means to me for Grades 3rd – 5th

Objectives

- To creatively explore what the ocean means to you on a personal level
- To understand why it's important to protect the ocean
- To create a persuasive, informative campaign poster for protecting the oceans

Outcomes

A poem and illustration entitled 'What the Ocean Means to Me'

A persuasive, informative campaign poster promoting the need to recycle in order to protect our oceans.

When did you last visit the ocean?

Where did you go?

What's your best experience with or memory of the ocean?

What do you know about the ocean?

What does the ocean mean to you?

Make a list of words that come into your head when you think about the ocean.

You can even use your words to make a creative display

Use this template to write a poem and create a drawing to show what the ocean means to you.

My Ocean Poem:

My Ocean Drawing:

Consider reasons why the ocean should be protected

Discuss: What is recycling?

Why does it have a good impact on our oceans?

How does it help to protect the oceans?

Now make a bullet point list of all the reasons why you think we should recycle more. Try to come up with at least five reasons.

Reasons why we should recycle are...

Look at the following factors that make a good campaign poster:

Strong bold colors

A catchy campaign slogan

Real life examples

Informative language

Persuasive language and techniques

Discuss each one and give reasons why it is important. Then put them in order of importance from most to least, giving reasons for your choices.

Thinking about the factors that make a good campaign poster, now it's your turn to make one!

Create a campaign poster explaining why we should recycle our waste, and persuading people to change their attitude towards waste in order to protect our oceans.

Appeal to their emotions by sharing what the ocean means to you.
